Minden throws a bash for Canada's 125th birthday

WASN'T THAT A PARTY?

Hundreds of people came out to the Fairgrounds on Sunday to take part in the community picnic celebrating Canada's 125th anniversary. Among the attractions were musical entertainers, dancers, a horseshoe tournament, tug-of-war, clowns, games, antique cars, food, a demonstration by the fire department, face painting and a huge birthday cake. In the midst of all the activity, the crowd still found time to pose for a patriotic group shot.

Drainville opposes Sunday shopping law

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Despite the wishes of local businesses and the provincial government, MPP Dennis Drainville says he will vote against changes to Sunday shopping legislation.

In an interview last week Drainville, who is a member of the New Democratic Party, said he does not agree with his party's decision to back-off on restricted Sunday shopping, a move which was prompted by public opinion.

"In the last three years polling figures have shown a complete turn around," he said. "There is much more of a demand for Sunday shopping and the government is trying to respond."

Drainville also said the government is trying to deal with the fact that legislation designed to restrict Sunday shopping has been difficult to enforce.

Last year the government introduced changes to the Retail Business Holidays Act which prohibited most stores from opening Sunday, except where municipalities pass by-laws permitting the operation of tourism-related businesses.

However Premier Bob Rae has been under increasing pressure from Ontario's business community to review the NDP's position and allow Sunday shopping.

Opening for business on Sunday was seen as a way to bolster the retail sector, which has suffered during the recession, and supporters claimed that Sunday shopping would decrease the number of Ontario residents who head south to shop in the United States.

Recently Rae announced that his government would reverse its earlier stand and would introduce changes to the legislature which would permit wide-open Sunday shopping, and that these changes would be put before a free vote by MPPs. Until the vote is taken, stores will be allowed to open on Sundays.

Free from party discipline, Drainville says he will vote against his government and against Sunday shopping.

"Quality of life means people are afforded the opportunity to have certain periods of time off work," he said. "I understand why the government is doing this, but I believe there has to be a stand taken."

Drainville supported the concept of a tourism exemption which would have allowed businesses in Haliburton County to remain open while other areas of the province would have to remain closed.

But even within areas operating under the tourism exemption, Drainville does not favour unrestricted business activity.

"In our riding there is no need for every shop to be open on Sunday," he said.

The date of the vote has not yet been announced and Drainville says the government may face some tough opposition to the bill, from its own party members.

"There is a quite a split in the party," he said. "This is not something which is going to pass without a problem."

Drainville believes the lobby for Sunday shopping has been back mostly by large chains and the Toronto media, which stands to gain from increased advertising revenue.

Faced with competitors opening their doors on Sundays, Drainville says small businesses will have tough time trying to stay closed.

Toll booth raised $2,200

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Minden council has renewed its support for the Minden Lions' Club voluntary toll booth, and paved the way for a repeat of the event next year.

At last Thursday's meeting, Lions' Club members Paul Norry and Scott Moore presented council with a cheque for $1,120, half of the amount raised by the toll booth on the Victoria Day weekend. The money will be used to help pay off the costs of the community centre expansion.

On Saturday, May 16, the Lions set themselves up at the corner of Main Street and South Water Street and on the bridge and accepted donations from passing motorists.

During the course of the day the Ontario Provincial Police took down the names of the club members involved in the toll booth after receiving a couple of complaints from drivers.

The following week the OPP said there were no laws broken during the course of the toll booth and the Lions would be welcome to hold the event again in 1993.

Reeve Bern Berry thanked Moore and Norry for the cheque, commended the club for handling the situation diplomatically, and said he was glad to see there would be police acceptance if the event is held next year.

Moore said club members handed out between 1,600 and 1,700 during the toll booth.

Council unanimously passed a resolution giving the club approval, in principle, to hold the fund raiser again next year.

Minden Reeve Bern Berry accepts a cheque for $1,120 from Lions Paul Norry (centre) and Scott Moore. The money, which was raised during the Victoria Day weekend toll booth, will help pay for the community centre expansion.

Meeting will discuss MVA

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

When Minden council learns about market value reassessment next month, residents of the municipality are invited to attend.

A special council meeting is scheduled for Friday, July 10 at 7:30 p.m. during which officials from the regional assessment office will explain the effect reassessment will have on property taxes in Anson, Hindon and Minden. Council has scheduled the meeting on a Friday to give cottagers an opportunity to attend.

The meeting is the next stage in a summer-long public information campaign on reassessment. During July assessment officers will meet with the councils from each of Haliburton County's 10 municipalities to provide detailed information on the impact reassessment will have.

Reeve Bern Berry says council has decided to hold its meeting at the community centre and invite interested residents to attend to "give the people who elected us a chance to have input."

Last month county council decided to proceed with the meetings. Councillors are expected to make a decision about whether or not to proceed with reassessment in late summer or early fall. If reassessment is adopted, all properties in Haliburton County will be assessed at their 1988 values for the purpose of determining property taxes.

Reform roadshow rolls into Lindsay

Preston Manning calls for changes to the justice and correction system

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Preston Manning brought his Reform Party roadshow into Lindsay last week, calling for changes to Canada's criminal justice system.

Speaking to a crowd of more than 800 people at the Ops Community Centre last Wednesday night, the leader of the Reform Party of Canada outlined his party's plan to revamp how people are tried and punished.

"In a country where the government is attempting to do everything, it's ironic that the government is failing to perform the one function where there is virtually no disagreement — to provide for the protection of life and property," he said.

Topping the list of the Reform Party's proposal is an overhaul of the Young Offender's Act, which protects the identities of people under the age of 18 years who are charged with an offense and also limits the severity of sentences which can be handed down.

Manning said the Act has to be overhauled to better protect society from juvenile offenders. Among the changes, he would make the rules of youth court the same as adult court and serious crimes would automatically be tried in adult court.

He also wants to see the elimination of automatic parole, sentence reductions limited to no more than 25 per cent, and the deportation of non-citizens who are convicted of serious offenses. The audience responded to Manning's remarks with enthusiastic applause.

On the issue of correctional methods, Manning called for a rehabilitation system with goals which are realistic and obtainable, and focus on counselling, education, job re-training and work programs.

The crowd also applauded the leader of the Reform Party when he suggested a national referendum be held on re-introducing the death penalty for people convicted of first degree murder.

In addition to the criminal justice system, Manning's speech covered more familiar Reform territory including parliamentary reform, government fiscal policy and the alienation of Canadians from their elected representatives.

The one issue which tops the Reform Party agenda is the need to eliminate the federal deficit and begin to reduce the country's debt load, a task at which Manning says the Conservative government has failed.

"In 1984, when the Progressive Conservatives took office, the federal deficit was in the vicinity of $30 billion annually and national debt was $170 billion," he said. "In 1992, despite all the talk about fiscal restraint, the deficit is still in excess of $30 billion annually and the national debt has risen to $425 billion."

If elected, Manning said the Reform Party would reduce the size of the federal civil service to trim away layers of unnecessary bureaucracy, reduce government hand-outs to business, and shift resources away from income support and toward training programs.

He said business, labour and citizens will have to initiate economic recovery by investing in manpower training and research and development with the government playing a supporting role.

During a press conference earlier in the day, Manning told members of the local media that he has been encouraging supporters of a triple-E (equal, elected and effective) senate to hold their ground during the current round of constitutional negotiations.

He said if opponents of the triple-E senate don't think the issue is big priority, they should be able to compromise to ensure a deal is possible.

Manning's visit to Lindsay was part of a tour of Ontario, which has only been open to the Reform Party for about a year. The party now has 30,000 members in 73 Ontario riding associations and Manning said there will be Reform candidates running in 99 ridings in the province by the next federal election.

Two candidates have already declared their interest in running as Reform candidates in the riding of Victoria-Haliburton.

Barry Devolin, who lives in Dysart, is a founding member and former president of the local Reform Party association. He recently stepped down as president to become eligible to contest the nomination.

The other person seeking the nomination is Paul Pagnuelo, a resident of Little Britain who is president of the Victoria County Taxpayers Coalition and a former vice-president of the Durham Federal Liberal Association.

Local Reform Party members will choose a candidate on September 28.

Reform Party leader Preston Manning faces reporters during a press conference at the Admiral Inn last Wednesday. Later that night he addressed a crowd of more than 800 people at the Ops community centre.

Going up: Eight Girl Guide members received the highest honour, the Cord, at a ceremony Wednesday night. Prior to receiving their Cords the guides had to walk through six arches, each representing an aspect of life. The Cords are given to those girls who perform community projects above and beyond what is expected of them. Projects this year included a food drive, collecting funds for the disabled, a garbage pick-up and an earth day meeting. The eight Girl Guides receiving their cords were: (clockwise from top left) Tara Sisson, Morgan Stackhouse, Ginny Adamson, Melissa Munro, Jessica Belcher, Brianne Mansfield, Megan Sisson and Lisa Reinwald.

Halls Lake dump gets ministry approval

by Andy Holloway

The landfill site in Halls Lake has received approval from the Ministry of the Environment to increase its size, but not without several conditions being placed on the dump.

The MOE gave the dump in Stanhope a certificate of approval which gives the township the right to increase the dump's size from .58 hectares to .82 hectares. One hectare equals 10,000 square meters or 2.471 acres.

However, the township will have to clean up its act if it expects the MOE to allow the dump to operate in the future. The most important, and inconvenient, of the conditions is that the burning of brush and wood will no longer be allowed on the dump site. Instead, brush and wood will have to be taken to the two other dump sites in Stanhope, where brush burning can still continue.

Other conditions included compacting and covering the site once a week, the site must be constantly supervised when it is open and a chain link fence will have to be erected around the site.

Another condition is that surface water in the area must be monitored three times per year, spring, summer and fall, while ground water will still be monitored twice a year.

Councillors expressed relief that the township received permission to increase the dump's size although they are concerned about how to implement the conditions.

The main problem is getting people to not bring brush into the Halls Lake dump. Several options of how to do this were put forward, but nothing was decided.

One suggestion offered was to let people dump brush for a period of time and truck the brush to the other dump sites. But, councillor Murray Daniels said the plan was not a good idea.

"We should not be in the trucking business," said Daniels, "Because the dump will fill up in no time and the brush will get dry and be a hazard."

Daniels suggested trying to educate people about the changes, but Reeve Fred Gardner said he did not think that would work either.

Gardner asked Daniels to look into renting a chipper until people stop bringing brush into the site. Daniels said council had looked at that option a few years ago, but at that time it was deemed too expensive.

Councillor Eleanor Harrison said the changes, while troublesome, should prove beneficial because Stanhope's dumps are one of the most lenient in the county.

Committee recommends stand against junior kindergarten

by Andy Holloway

The school board's education committee is recommending the trustees support a resolution calling for full funding of any new provincial education programs.

A similar resolution was first passed by the Prince Edward County Board of Education in early April.

The resolution means the boards will not implement any new Ministry of Education initiatives, like junior kindergarten and destreaming, until that program is fully funded by the provincial government.

Director of Education Brad Saunders said the resolution, if passed by the board, adds one more voice against the ministry of education's funding policy.

Minden trustee Wendy Ladurantaye, a member of the education committee, said she is not against the idea of programs like junior kindergarten. However, she said the ministry of education should look at how its proposed programs affect the children in each area and at the increasing costs to the board.

She said the Minister of Education Tony Silipo should come to Haliburton County and see what it would be like to wait for a bus early on a January morning, spend over an hour on the bus to school and then another hour on the bus ride home before he makes decisions. At the very least, said Ladurantaye, he should give county boards some flexibility in implementing new programs.

The resolution comes after the province limited transfer payments to an increase of 1 per cent this year and two per cent next year.

With declining provincial support for education, taxpayers have had to pay more in municipal taxes to cover the cost of education.

In some of the richer counties, provincial education grants have actually dropped. In Haliburton, the board received $500,000 less money in grants than last year causing the board to cut supply and equipment purchases while enrollment is increasing.

Saunders said at a public meeting to discuss the budget that the discontent shown by the boards of education will force the government to come up with a new funding program.

He said the richest school boards, like Peel Region, receive so little money from the province that the province is losing its authority over the boards.

At the board meeting in May, the board recommended that the education committee study the Prince Edward County resolution and report back to council at the next meeting to be held June 30.

A motley crew

Minden's municipal councillors have thrown down the gauntlet and are challenging other local politicians to a test of bravery and nautical skill. On July 1, Jean Anthon, Grant Plooard, Bern Berry, Lewis Stevens and Jerry Rome will take on representatives from other municipalities in a pedal boat race down the Gull River, if any willing opponents can be found.

The race will be just one of the may Canada Day activities planned for Minden village and will coincide with the annual Crazy Raft Race which is being sponsored by the Business Improvement Area.

Dysart selling dump cards

by Andy Holloway

Non-residents of Dysart et al will be back in the dumps again.

Dysart et al council approved a motion allowing non-Dysart residents to use the municipalities dump sites for a fee of $25 per year.

Recently, Dysart switched to a card system for its dumps and only homeowners received them. Residents who were tenants have to prove they rented a home in the municipality to receive a dump card.

The card system has created a problem, said Reeve Chris Hodgson, with outside residents who work and shop in the area. The system also affected businesses just outside the area and camps like Camp Wanakita which is in Stanhope Township, but whose closest dump was in Dysart.

Hodgson originally suggested a $20 fee, but that figure was boosted to cover all of the costs, including administration, of operating the dump sites.

"I think it's reasonable to expect people who are outside the municipality to contribute to the expenses," said Hodgson.

Councillor Brian Watts said not making the dumps available to outside residents would prove detrimental to (more on page 10)

A day for pride

The residents of Minden don't need a parliamentary committee or constituent assembly to express how we feel about our community and our country - all we need is a sunny Sunday afternoon, a handful of dedicated volunteers and a whole lot of friends.

Last weekend's community picnic was a heart-warming demonstration that, in these time of economic hardships and dire warning of a national crisis, there is still much for which we should be thankful and many reasons to celebrate being Canadian.

The day's success was assured when Mother Nature gave us her support by contributing the first dose of pleasant weekend weather in several weeks, as hundreds of people crowded on to the Fairgrounds to enjoy the food, fun and fellowship.

Those in attendance spanned several generations, from the youngsters who eagerly waited for the serving of the giant birthday cake, to the seniors who made the first cuts. One family was represented by five generations, each enjoying the festivities in his or her own way.

The picnic also proved that having fun does not require high-tech or high finance. Attractions like live music, children's games, tug-of-wars and the demonstration by the fire department require only willing volunteers willing participants for success.

Our sincere appreciation goes out to all the organizers, service clubs, performers, community groups and helpers who were involved in the momentous effort to put the day together. It is a credit to these people that so much planning and hard work can be made to look so easy.

And it's nice to think that while we were all laughing, singing, talking and playing, other people from other communities in other provinces were involved in much the same activity, enjoying what it really means to be a Canadian and not at all concerned with senate reform, division of powers or asymmetrical federalism.

Perhaps if constitutional ministers and government leaders spent a little more time in places like Minden and a little less time counting commas, they would understand that Canada can not be defined in a legal brief or unintelligible clause.

Canada is the result of the pride and affection from the millions of people who call her home, and that is something which can not be bargained away.

Is P.T. Barnum working in the PMO?

There's a sucker born every minute.

A chap by the name of Phineas Taylor Barnum uttered that observation more than a century ago. P.T.'s philosophical conclusion was based on a lifetime of watching the rubes line up to get in his world-famous circus. Barnum discovered that people would pay to see just about anything, as long as it was served up with a good gob of showmanship. When the famous Cardiff Giant was "discovered", Barnum immediately tried to buy it for display in his circus. The owners turned him down. Undeterred, Barnum hired a sculptor to carve another Cardiff Giant. He did, and Barnum pitched a tent over it and started selling tickets. In no time, Barnum's fake of a fake was attracting more customers than the original.

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black

P.T. Barnum is dead now. He died in 1891. I know because I checked. I checked because I was beginning to think that old P.T. was alive and well and working out of the Prime Minister's office in Ottawa.

Have you noticed the oh, so subtle sales job that's been done on our PM of late? It started around the beginning of 1992, if I'm not mistaken — which, coincidentally enough, is about the time Hugh Segal was hired as chief Image masseur for the PM.

Gradually, kinder, gentler stories and photos about Mulroney began to appear. Here was Brian stooping to pick up a swooning female Mountie. There was Brian commiserating with the widow Jeanne Sauve at the funeral of her husband.

I'm not suggesting that the Mountie took a dive, or that Mulroney didn't feel real compassion for Madame Sauve. I'm merely pointing out that both photos landed on the front pages of an awful lot of the nation's newspapers. And they were the kind of photos that a press agent has wet dreams about.

Is that you behind the curtain, Hughie?

It's not just the newspapers either. Did you catch that

Readers comment on Hyland Crest labour dispute

Take advantage of seasoned workers

Editor:

Our greatest complaint from staff at Hyland Crest is lack of communication. At last through the article "Behind the Pickets" we hear from a quote by Phyllis Hiltz-Bonje that "other options were considered which would have had more impact on staff". I wonder what these options were, as no input from the staff was ever invited taking advantage of experience from seasoned workers.

Rheta Jones stated in the same article "natural suspicion among staff that management knew about changes but didn't inform employees until last minute" is true. She also stated that some of the reviews dated back to 1980; true again. These reports were posted on staff bulletin boards June 1992.

The whole issue boils down to funding from the Ministry of Health - Does the end really justify the means when other means could have been utilized if begun in time?

It seems to have evaded people in charge of this situation that this issue deals with people, staff and residents not to mention

Nothing but praise for the staff

Editor:

I have read and re-read the articles in The Times this past week and am really sorry that the public did not have any notice of all the unrest until now. We are all very interested in Hyland Crest, as some of us who saw it opened never thought anything like this could happen.

My husband was a resident from 1984 until his death last year and I and our family have had nothing but praise about the way the complete staff cared for him. He called all the ladies his dolls.

From the article, I received the impression that the present RNA's would have to re-apply for jobs they already have. Why?

I was reminded of that old phrase "Why rock the boat when the sea is calm?", so I ask why disrupt the residents with new faces and kick out familiar ones?

Irene Moore,

families of both. Also, businesses in the area are being affected when staff no longer will have money to spend in the community.

Since the introduction of Hyland Crest 25 years ago we have always had a reputation as a caring community for seniors, stressing the fact that this was a home for elder residents, not an institution. Maybe this is an old fashioned idea in these days of "advancing into the 90s".

We realize it must be difficult for anyone who has never worked in the close caring environment we have enjoyed all these years at Hyland Crest to understand.

Also hard to understand must be how up-setting it is to be told you are incapable of upgrading your standards to care for your "family".

In answer to Mr. Berry's remarks in The Echo, Tuesday, June 9 "when the dust settles..."; we are dealing with people's lives here, Mr. Berry, not dust.

How easy to use a cliché with a pat on the head to employees worrying about making ends meet. Employees who have always given that little bit extra than required and then to pass on to the next subject on the agenda. How we wish we were in such a position.

At this time, CUPE local 1225 would like to thank wholeheartedly its supporters on County Council who spoke out for us at great personal risk to their own careers giving us hope. A special thank you to Mr. Jim McMahon for his outspoken remarks. Also to the good people of Minden who whole we picketed with information gave us their sup-

Where is the report?

Editor:

I noted with interest the concern of R.J. Wiltshire regarding the annual publication of the financial report of the Minden Hospital Building Fund. I have raised the question verbally, and a few weeks ago followed up with a letter to Rotary voicing my concerns.

As a former original committee member and Treasurer of the fund, the statement was always available following the calendar year and published.

As a contributor to the fund, I would also like to know the status of this $20,000 plus fund, and be assured there will be annual public statements in the future.

Main concern is the residents

Editor:

I am a part time Health Care Aide working at Hyland Crest and with my main concern being the care of the residents, I realize that upgrading is essential for their care.

At a staff meeting held on May 19 by the Administrator and DON, we were told that to bridge the gap between the professional and non-professional staff there would be five full time RNAs hired on June 15. These RNAs would be doing the documentation of the care plans for each resident.

Since this meeting, the present HCAs and orderlies have been doing this documentation daily with the RN on duty. Does this mean we are qualified until June 15 and when these RNAs are hired we become unqualified?

In the past, the present staff have shown the ability and desire to upgrade. In the early eighties when we were told the Ministry's requirement was going to be an HCA certificate to work in the home, we all took the course to become Health Care Aides.

According to Mrs. Jones in the article "Behind the Pickets", the need to upgrade the nursing department has now been documented in reviews dated back to the 1980s. This is now 1992 and we are just being told. If these reviews had been made available to the staff we would have known the RNAs were needed and would have taken the RNA course and the present jobs could have been filled from within the home.

I have worked at Hyland Crest for 12 years and I always thought the longer you worked for an employer the better you were treated but apparently this isn't the case at Hyland Crest.

A trusting relationship?

Editor:

In the article "Behind the Pickets", the DON (Director of Nursing) at Hyland Crest states, "I'm new and the changes are occurring before the employees have had a chance to develop a trusting relationship with me as a supervisor."

If a trusting relationship is manipulating, going against a collective agreement that was signed by both management and the Union, upsetting every employee's life at Hyland Crest, well then I'm afraid there won't be much of a trusting relationship at Hyland Crest.

Road oil is no laughing matter

Editor:

We had our Township road really soaked oil yesterday and I had to drive on it and got black spots on my new car.

I went to the Township office to complain about it. A bystander inside thought it was funny but I don't think it was. I've had to scrub and wash it twice already. I have enough to worry about.

The road boss didn't even have the decency to call me back about it. If the shoe was on the other foot it wouldn't be funny and probably something would be done right away. It's time that things were done right.

Sincerely,
Helen Cox

The spin doctors are working over-time

televised love-in Brian and Mila did with Hana Gartner? One full hour of prime time lob balls in which Brian (wisely) let Mila do most of the talking while he sat in his Perry Como sweater, aw-shucksing softly in the background.

The PM even managed to corral some warm and fuzzy press coverage on Mother's Day. He told a radio audience that he always cooks up breakfast on Mother's Day for the wife and kiddies. "It's a tradition that Mila kind of enjoys," he told the audience.

Gosh. Sounds so wholesome and folksy. Kinda like Fred MacMurray in My Three Sons. It's supposed to.

This is a major cosmetic makeover. The task is to take the most roundly loathed public figure in Canadian history and transform him into something...human.

And there's not much time. The Mulroney Mandate is finally running out. Very soon the Prime Minister is going to have to look at a calendar and pick a date for the next federal election.

So the PMO spin doctors are getting their licks while they can. And doing a pretty good job too, considering what they've got to work with. After Mulroney's last visit to Washington, the papers were full of headline adjectives like "blunt" and "forceful". George Bush (a man all too aware of the necessity of heavy makeup) obliged his ole fishin' buddy with the hoary Whitehouse humble routine — the one that goes "Boy, that Mister Mulroney sure did give me some talking to, I'll tell ya."

It was perfect politics on both sides. Everybody looks good. Lots of words. Nothing on paper.

Will it work? Can Mulroney and Company dance and sing fast enough to make the Canadian electorate forget the past eight hideous years in the country's life? It's not impossible. All he's got to do is:

(a) stick the handle past a couple of political sock puppets called Chretien and McLaughlin...

...and (b) convince us to vote for him.

The first part's easy for a wily old vet like Mulroney. The second part? P.T. Barnum is famous for another saying: "Nobody ever went broke underestimating the intelligence of the public."

Let's hope that for once in his life, old Phineas was wrong.

Stanhope council deals with access dispute

The following items were discussed at Stanhope's monthly council meeting on Wednesday.

Staanworth treasurer resigns

The treasurer for Staathworth Non-profit Housing resigned from the board in a letter to Stanhope council.

Robert Wiltshire has served on the board since its inception and has been treasurer for all of the housing developments the corporation has been involved in.

Wiltshire was one of the four members from Stanhope township. No one was selected to replace him right away, but councillors will report next month with a list of suitable and willing people for the vacant position.

Plea for assistance

Stanhope council passed a resolution very similar to one passed by Anson, Hindon and Minden two weeks ago asking for government assistance in creating jobs in the area.

The resolution asks both the federal and provincial governments for job creation assistance. There was some opposition to the resolution before it was unanimously passed.

"I don't think passing a resolution would do any good," said councillor Murray Daniels who added later, "But it won't do any harm."

Councillor Barb Wangle said adding another voice to the resolution might get the word out to the governments that the county needs help. Currently, unemployment in the area is over 30 per cent.

Copies of the resolution will be sent to CKCO TV and CHEY radio.

Council also passed a resolution asking the provincial government to continue construction of Highway 118 next year between Norly Road and Haliburton Village.

Fight over road closure

A meeting was held to hear concerns from the public over council's proposed decision to sell road allowance to the Cherokee Resort.

Stanhope resident Elvin Johnson said snowmobilers need access from Halls Lake to Boshkung Lake and if the road allowance is closed off then snowmobilers will have to use less safe passage ways.

Johnson said if snowmobilers go around the property then they will end up on a part of the lake where the current is the strongest and hence, the ice is the weakest.

Carl Fischbach, owner of Cherokee Resort, said he wants to buy the road allowance to be able to improve his property. He said his current lack of beach front and the amount of noise from snowmobilers are the two most common complaints of his customers.

Johnson said that if trees are left standing on the property then they will provide a natural, and beautiful, sound barrier. He added there is about six to eight inches of water on the area and would therefore not be used in summer. Johnson asked for a path that is 33 feet wide be left through the area.

Councillor Murray Daniels said he felt council was being used by the snowmobile association to settle a dispute that should be resolved by the parties themselves.

A final ruling on the road allowance was deferred until the next township meeting when all of the parties affected by the decision can be present.

Silver years: Three Hydro Ontario employees recently reached 25 years of service with the firm. They are from left: Jim Davis (area lines supervisor), Murray Sisson (truck driver) and Tom Lee (forestry supervisor).

Non-residents can use Dysart's dumps for a fee

the area's economy.

"It's easy to say they work here so they have to come here, but there are a helluva lot of people who work here and don't have to shop here," said Watts.

Hodgson said running the dump sites costs the municipality about $200,000 and costs are rising as new regulations and waste-reduction plans are put in place.

Non-residents can pick up a dump card at the Dysart et al municipal office.

Commercial properties wishing to use Dysart dumps will be dealt with on an individual basis according to how much garbage they wish to throw away.

Residents of Dysart who are tenants and have not received a dump card can pick a card up at municipal offices as long as they have proof of their residency.

Other environmental matters discussed by council included the possible use of buying a cardboard compactor to bale suitable cardboard. The bales would be removed, most likely to Toronto, for recycling.

Councillor Robert Heinze is looking into the costs of buying and running a cardboard compactor. Preliminary estimates obtained by Heinze show a compactor would cost in the area of at least $11,000.

Heinze also visited a dump site in South River which is currently using a compactor to find out whether it was worth it. Heinze said he was impressed with the amount of cardboard saved and with the other environmental initiatives the dump site has come up with, including a flea market and making tires into flower/garden beds.

Council was also told by the Ministry of Natural Resources in Bancroft that the MNR will be helping the municipality create a fire break around the Harcourt Park dump site.

Jim Keverly will lead a crew from the MNR to mark the trees needed to be cut down to create the fire break. The municipality will then be responsible for cutting and clearing the trees.

As well, the MOE pointed out that brush and leaves are still being left at dump sites. Councillor Lloyd Leadbeater, who lives in the Harcourt Park area, said people are being discouraged not to dump their brush, but there will always be those people who do it anyway.

Chamber presents plan for economic development to Minden councillors

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce is getting back on track after absorbing the county's economic development office earlier this year.

Last Thursday, chamber directors Rhonda Elstone and Dennis Casey and economic development officer Mark Stagg met with Minden council to present an update of the chamber's activities.

Elstone said the chamber wants to meet with municipal politicians to talk about economic development and "keep the lines of communication open." Minden is the first municipality to respond to the invitation for a meeting. While merging the chamber and the economic development office is a natural fit, Elstone said the process has been a "major challenge" and forced a change of attitude among members of the board of directors.

The amalgamation occurred as a result of the county budget which put the county official plan on hold. Stagg and his staff have been transferred to the chamber in a deal which requires that the chamber assume the responsibility for economic development in the county.

Adjusting for the increased role has taken some effort, said Elstone. "I think we're getting there, but it's not perfect yet."

She brought council up to date on the chamber's marketing activities which will include participation in the Markham Snowmobile Show, the Toronto Sportsmen's Show and production of a destination guide for next year.

Chamber unveils a gem of a promotion

This year the chamber has come up with a special contest to draw people into the county, using a brochure.

Local artist Robert VanNood has illustrated 45 different activities in the Highlands in a cartoon. Hidden in the cartoon are a certain number of diamonds, which people are supposed to find by studying the drawing.

People who can correctly identify the number of diamonds hidden in the drawing are eligible to win the grand prize of a inflatable boat and outboard motor.

Elstone said 50,000 of the brochures will be distributed throughout southern Ontario and people have to bring the brochures back to Haliburton County to have their entries validated at participating businesses or the chamber office. The contest will not be open to county residents.

"If they come here, we're sure we'll get them back again," she said.

Reeve Bern Berry commended the chamber for the idea and said the success of the "Find Waldo" books are an indication of the popularity of those kinds of puzzles.

The chamber has dropped its plans for a television advertising campaign, because of a lack of support from county businesses.

Casey, who has worked with Stagg to amalgamate the chamber and the economic development office, presented some of the chamber's plans to encourage new business in the county.

He said the chamber has directed Stagg to work on attracting industries into the area over the course of the next year, and asked for the municipality's help.

The chamber wants to establish a central registry of information about the potential for industrial development in each municipality.

Casey presented council with a list of initiatives the chamber would like the township to undertake and a list of services which will be provided by the economic development office in return.

The municipality is being asked to provide Stagg with information about proposals for industrial and commercial development, a routine for the handling of development proposals, and an inventory of municipal land with development potential.

Although Casey said the confidentiality of information provided by the municipality will be maintained, Berry expressed concerns about the possibility of developments being put in jeopardy.

He brought up the fact that a couple of years ago a deal to purchase land for a municipal industrial park fell through after the name of the land owner was made public.

"We're not here to tell you what to tell us, that's for you as a council to decide," said Casey. "You give us whatever information you're comfortable with."

He said the chamber wants to make it as easy as possible for people who interested in investing in the area to collect information on what the county has to offer.

While Haliburton's economic future is still routed in the tourism and service industry, Casey said the development of an industrial base is important has a source of year round employment and a expanded tax base.

Hyland Crest staff changes delayed

The county has delayed implementing controversial staffing changes at Hyland Crest senior citizens' home until after a meeting between council and staff members this Wednesday.

The changes, which include the hiring of five full-time registered nursing assistants (RNAs), a reduction in hours for part-time health care aides and the termination of six temporary contract positions, were scheduled to take effect today (Monday).

In the past two weeks staff members, who are represented by the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) have been holding information pickets in downtown Minden to protest the changes and bring their concerns to the attention of the public.

This Wednesday, union representatives will meet with county council to explain their concerns about the changes.

Dysart supports Minden's call for assistance

The following items were discussed at Dysart et al's council meeting last Monday.

Employment assistance

Council supported a resolution passed by the council of Anson, Hindon and Minden asking both the federal and provincial governments to spend money on employment assistance programs for the Haliburton Highlands region.

Reeve Chris Hodgson said while he supported the plan in principle he was a little concerned about the vague wording of the resolution.

"We don't want the government to spend more money than they planned to do anyway. I would like to see if there are any plans to be implemented then do it now rather than waiting until next year," said Hodgson.

Councillor Robert Heinze supported the resolution, but also had some concerns about the funding of the any programs. Heinze said he favoured cutting taxes to businesses because the money to fund assistance programs will have to come from "our pockets."

MOE to restrict development

The Ministry of the Environment wants to begin restricting developments of more than five lots by severance.

The MOE is concerned about the size of and use of private water and sewage systems for multi-lot developments along lake front properties.

Dysart notes

For developments of over five lots, the MOE wants the municipality to supply both water and sewage facilities. Currently, Dysart only supplies one or the other and sometimes neither.

Dysart also allows up to nine lots to be created by severance as long as certain conditions imposed by the municipality are met.

The MOE is acting independently of the Sewell Commission which is developing new recommendations for changing the Planning Act.

Reeve Chris Hodgson said the MOE is making a "mockery" of the consultation process that the Sewell Commission is doing with the municipalities.

Outstanding taxes up, building revenues down

There has been an increase in the number of people not paying their taxes over last year.

Council was told the number of people not paying their taxes has increased nearly 20 per cent from the same period last year. Reeve Chris Hodgson blamed the increase on the recession.

As well, revenues from building permits are down to $7,400 from $12,600 this year.

Slalom water-skiing course

A resolution to let James D. Dale establish a slalom water-skiing course on Kenesis Lake was deferred until cottager's associations have also passed the motion.

Deputy-reeve Curry Bishop said the cottagers are the ones most likely to be affected by the course.

Councillor Brian Watts said he has already heard concerns from some residents.

Snofest '93 dates set

Plans for Snofest '93 are moving along on schedule said Councillor Brian Watts who is in charge of the event.

Watts said several working committees have been created to look after various aspects of the winter festival. As well, the dates for the event have been set for the February 6 weekend.

There was some concern the festival would overlap with the annual Rotary Club winter carnival, but the Rotary Club generally holds its event on the last weekend of January.

Watts said Snofest is expected to generate about $3 million in revenues to the area. Most of the events will be held on Kashagawigamog Lake.

Police issue safety warning to drivers

The Ontario Provincial Police in Number 8 District is experiencing an increase in the number of fatal motor vehicle collisions.

In 1992, our district, which includes the Counties of Peterborough, Haliburton, Victoria, Northumberland and portions of Highway 401 in the Region of Durham, has investigated 21 fatal motor vehicle collisions in which 31 persons were killed.

Nine of the collisions occurred on Highway 401, 8 on other King's Highways, with 4 occurring on County roads.

Alcohol played a role in 8 or 38% of these collisions.

Although fewer vehicles have been checked this year, our 12-hour suspensions have increased by some 10%.

In 38% of the collisions, the fatally injured driver/passenger(s) were not using seatbelt restraints. One of these was a six month old infant.

The following were identified as the main causes for these collisions: following too closely, failing to yield right of way, improper lane changes and speeding.

In light of these alarming and tragic statistics, we are seeking the motoring public's support and co-operation in assisting us in reducing the number of fatalities on our highways.

*These offers may not be combined or used in combination with any other offer except the College Graduate Program. Offers apply to 1992 new and unused, or demonstrator models purchased from dealer inventory. Offers valid for a limited time starting May 22, 1992 while quantities last and applies to retail deliveries only. Cash back offer includes GST. Financing offer available with no limit on the amount financed, to qualified retail buyers financing their purchases through GMAC on a maximum 48 month contract. Example: For $12,000 financed over 48 months at 3.9% APR, the monthly payment is $270.41, the cost of borrowing is $979.68 and the total amount to be repaid is $12,979.68. Assuming a rebate of $1,000 as the alternative, should you choose the reduced financing rate, legislation requires that the amount of the rebate must be included in the cost of borrowing in order to arrive at an effective interest rate. In the example given, the effective interest rate would be 7.45% APR, and the total cost of borrowing, including the rebate not taken, would be $1,914.26. Some conditions apply. Hustlers swat Lindsay

by Andy Holloway

On a night when batters seemed more intent on swatting mosquitoes than hits, the Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers put an end to its modest two game losing streak with a 5-2 win over hapless Lindsay Kent Tavern.

Lindsay, now winless on the season in last place in the Tri-County Fastball League, just did not have the hitters to make a serious dent in Hustler pitcher Brian Shaw's arsenal.

Shaw went the distance for the win giving up just four hits and one earned run. Shaw also struck out seven batters and walked four.

But it was an error by Shaw that gave Lindsay its first run and the lead in the top of the first inning. The first batter up for Lindsay, Eric Ellis, laid a bunt down between Shaw and first baseman Dave Dollo. Shaw cleanly fielded the ball and wheeled to throw Ellis out, but missed Andrew Burk who was covering first base. The ball ended up in right field and Ellis ended up on third before the ball was thrown back. Two batters later John Duffy lined a single past Hustler shortstop Doug Shaw to put Lindsay ahead.

The Hustlers came out smoking in its half of the inning and scored all the runs they would need for a win. Tim Davies started it off with a lead off walk. Davies was then sacrificed to second base and moved to third when Shaw reached first on an error by Lindsay's first baseman Howard Ellis.

Andrew Burk picked up both with a lined double to left field. Burk then moved to third on a throwing error be-

Sport reveals alot more than ability

There is a popular cliché that is often espoused by athletic supporters, the people and not the plastic cup that Blue Jay Dave Stieb is forever tugging at: "Sports builds character," say these people who stereotypically have crew cut hair-dos and thick ankles, and that's just the women.

The problem with this cliché is that these people actually believe what they say. As a result they can inflict great pain, both physical and psychological, on those athletes who don't meet their standards in an effort to turn them into something they can not possibly ever be.

"Winning isn't everything, it's the only thing," is another popular cliché that illustrates this belief. When this attitude is turned onto children, they accept it readily enough because if they don't they will get trampled on by their mates.

No one wants to be a loser.

Unfortunately this attitude can be easily used by people arguing there is no place for sports in our school system. Not only are sports costly (have you priced athletic supporters lately), but it is damaging to a child's development.

Another negative side, expressed by my father on numerous occasions, states that athletics takes time and therefore concentration away from academic studies. This argument sees sports as an easy way for a student to get out of a few classes by attending tournaments and games away from school.

"If you think my son is going to spend time playing hockey or some fool thing when he should be inside studying every night, you're sadly mistaken," my father would scream over a meal.

However, a closer look at the athletic world shows that sports does not in fact build character. But sports sure reveals character and characters.

Yes, some students will use athletics as a means to take a day off here and there. At the Kawartha West track finals a few weeks ago, there were many athletes who skipped their events, played lacrosse and sneaked off for a

Rantin' 'n' Ravin'

by Andy Holloway

smoke every now and then. As the day went on, these students revealed their true character to their coaches who took their names down with vague threats of punishment which were, of course, laughed at.

However, most students were there to participate in the competition and took it seriously. They did not come to waste the hours of time they had practiced for their events in the early morning or after school. They were there to, not necessarily win, but to do their best. They too had revealed their character.

While waiting for their events, many Haliburton Highlands Redmen cheered on their fellow teammates. They did not sneak off to get a tan, they kept contributing to their team with encouragement, congratulations and consolations. Several other players spent their down-time studying for a test or catching up on their reading. These students too revealed true character.

At the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Awards Banquet last week, there was a lot of character shown, most of it good. The coaches praised the players for giving it their all even when the results were often poor. The players praised the coaches for taking their own valuable time to teach them the finer points of sports.

Track coach Paul Morissette had this to say about one athlete, Chris Greenfield, "He's a gentle man. When we go to any track meet, people come up and talk to Chris because he's one of the nicest people around."

Morissette could easily have been talking about many of the Redmen athletes who have participated throughout this year. But it proves the point that people will reveal their own character when it comes to participating in athletics.

The athlete of the year awards to Danielle LaRue and Derek Wilson, which were surprising if not deserving, also proved it's not the athlete who wins the most that gets the most out of sports, it's the ones who show dedication and enthusiasm who really win in the end.

Slow pitch teams undeterred by rain—proceeds from tourney go toward fencing

Submitted

The Minden Hawks held its first annual Coors Slo-pitch Tournament over a rainy May 28 weekend.

Players were eager to take part in this, one of the first events of the season and despite a rather rainy weekend, had a very enjoyable time.

Twenty teams took part in the tournament which was split into three divisions, two competitive ones, "C" and "D", and a recreational division. The top four teams in each division qualified for the Coors Slo-pitch tournament in September.

Steve Melone's team Quarry Village from Scarborough won the "C" championship 9-7 over Brian Steeles' Cameron Devils. Spades Squad from Minden captured third spot over Haliburton's Green Machine.

Tim Handley's Timbits team from Burnt River took the "D" division with a 4-2 win over Harold Cowen's Rum Runners. Mr. D's Donuts took third spot with a win over the Sodbusters in extra innings.

Shane McKelvey's Shopsy's team captured the Recreational title winning 14-8 in the final game over Bill Davies' Lindsay Dodge. The Haliburton County Blue Jays took third spot with a win over Minden's Keany Chrysler.

A special thanks goes out to all teams who participated and all those who helped out umpiring, scorekeeping, snack bar duties and whoever else was involved in the tournament. A special thanks to Highlands Jeweller, Kawartha Dairy, Mr. D's Donuts, Bacardi Breezer and Coors for helping to make the tournament a success. Hope to see all teams again next year.

Seven hundred dollars was donated on behalf of the Minden Hawks tournament to the Minden ball diamonds.

Members of the Hawks are Kevin, Craig, Larry and Donelda Smith, Tammy Cox, Jeff and Dwayne Stamp, Tracey and Janet Nesbitt, Brian Burke, Louie Kernohan, Connie Lindsay, Tanya Woodcock and Jodi Dillon.

Parks department supervisor, Ivan Ingram, centre, accepts a $700 donation to go toward fencing and dug-outs for the community's first diamond. Craig, left, and Kevin Smith made the presentation.

Lindsey Sala puts the shot in its place, and finishes third in the grade 5 division, during the Archie Stouffer Elementary School track and field meet last week.

Hustlers pick up win

fore Ron Yake cashed him in with a bloop single into centre to make it 3-1 for the Hustlers.

Lindsay got its second, and last run, in the third inning by combining a walk, a stolen base, a passed ball and a ground-out.

In its half of the third, the Hustlers scored two to put the game out of reach. With one out, Burk lined a single into left field and stole second base. With two gone, Jaime Dollo poked a single into right field, scoring Burk. Mike McNaull then lofted a triple into right to score Dollo with the final run of the game.

Lindsay made one final gasp in the sixth inning and had two runners in scoring position with just one out, but failed to capitalize as Shaw struck out Ron Charmon (still hitless on the season) and induced Chris Perrin to fly out.

Shaw was simply overpowering as both Lindsay batters and Hustlers catcher Jaime Dollo continually found out. Dollo and Shaw combined for five passed balls/wild pitches before Shaw settled down in the fifth inning.

Hustler shortstop Doug Shaw made a couple of nice over-the-shoulder foul ball catches with his back turned away from the infield.

The Hustlers totalled nine hits off the two Lindsay pitchers, but only two off of relief pitcher Ron Charmon.

The Hustlers are now 3-2 on the season and are in a dogfight with Bobcaygeon for second place. Fenelon Falls leads the league having lost only one game, that to the Hustlers, with a 6-1 record.

Bob Keane, visiting from Ireland, got a taste of Canadian outdoors last month when he landed this 19 pound laker out of Boshkung Lake. He bagged this lunker using a large spoon and normal spinning tackle. He is seen with his prize, and brother Kevin of Milton, at the Clansman Motel where they stayed.

Key roles filled

Directors name Camelot's leading citizens and players

The citizens of the magical kingdom of Camelot have been chosen.

Highlands Little Theatre announced last week the names of the individuals who have been invited to become, "for one brief shining moment," a part of the cast of the musical Camelot. The local theatre group will be presenting the musical in late November and early December.

Leading the cast of players will be Lindsey Coates as Guenevere, Wayne Cooper as Lancelot and John Miller as King Arthur.

Others who will be part of Camelot this fall include: Heather Alloway, Chris Archer, Doug Brohm, Glen Carter, Jocelyn Eastmure, Anna Edwards, Rebecca Felts, Doug Gifford, Janet Hurley, Lloyd Johnson, Gordon Kidd, Anita Kuno, Sarah Levis, Ruth Lewis, Ian MacKenzie, Jock Mavor, Anne-Marie McLeish, John Miller, Bob Penfold and Jim Taylor.

The principal players and other members of the cast were selected after extensive auditions held May 18 and 19 at the Haliburton United Church. Hopefuls took part in an acting, singing and dancing try-out in an effort to discover the individuals best suited for the 24 roles included in the local production. After hours of carefully considering the performances, the directors announced their choices last week.

Despite the fact that most leading roles are now filled, the directors are still looking for a number of men to augment the complement of Knights in Camelot. Anyone interested in receiving his Knighthood should contact the director Curtis Eastmure at 754-2504.

A particularly challenging role also remains unfilled, one that will require rare talents and abilities. Knight Pellinore has a companion who has followed him throughout his life. This faithful bond has not been without its rough moments and there are times their relationship can only be characterised as a battle.

The part is that of Horrid the Dog. His/her role is described as battle-weary. The dog appears in a single scene during the play. The directors are looking for a docile animal that responds well and who will not be intimidated by a live audience. No dancing or singing required. If you think you have a dog that meets these attributes and who is looking for his big theatrical break, contact Curtis Eastmure.

Tickets for the five performances of Camelot are now on sale. The musical will be presented November 27 and 28, December 4 and 5 with a matinee performance on Sunday November 29. Evening performance tickets are $9 each, at the matinee adult tickets are $7 with seniors and students $5. To purchase tickets, contact Curtis Eastmure at the number noted above.

Two sides to cartoonist's talent

by Andy Holloway

For the past year regular readers of the Minden Times have had a few laughs reading the editorial cartoon on page six by Gil Parcell.

But a new exhibit at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery may surprise those who are only familiar with Parcell's bitingly sarcastic cartoons. Parcell is also an accomplished painter who's scenes of old Britain and more local and rural settings manage to capture the whimsy of everyday life.

Born and raised in Liverpool, England, Parcell entered the Royal Canadian Air Force when he was just 18 years of age in 1940. He served six years in the RAF as an aircraft mechanic, including four years in the middle east.

Emigrating to Canada in 1947 with his wife Mary, Parcell started work as a commercial artist with Timothy Eaton Co. Ten years later he became a freelance advertising artist, and continued, until 1979 when his illustrations and cartoons showed up in newspapers and magazines across Canada and the United States.

Last year, Parcell won an award for the best cartoon in a local paper from the Canadian Newspapers Association.

His days in advertising have led Parcell to be particularly productive with his artwork.

"When I'm finished with a painting, I don't want to see them again," says Parcell.

In the same vein, Parcell uses acrylic paints, not so much for their vibrant colours but because it dries fast.

"I'm kind of impatient. I want to paint and then immediately paint again so I don't like to wait for the paint to dry," says Parcell.

However, there is one oil-

Gil Parcell, known for his caricatures in The Times, also allows a whimsical air to surface in his more serious work. His painting, Home Improvement, provides an example of his wry outlook on life.

based painting on display as well as an intricate carving that must have taken some time.

However the bulk of the exhibit, which runs until June 27, is made up of Parcell's editorial cartoons for The Times and a collection of acrylic paintings.

While politicians have been known to be stung by a particularly nasty cartoon, Parcell's paintings show a different side to his personality. All of them have a subtle trace of humour that becomes apparent after a closer look.

"Repairs While You Wait" shows a medieval knight standing half-naked and looking embarrassed while a man repairs his iron pants. "Outhouse: Home Improvement" shows a family gathering around a run-down outhouse while Dad shows off the newly unpacked porcelain indoor toilet.

Parcell says the humour in his works comes quite naturally.

"I have to sustain my interest in them, so I like to do something amusing which will hold my interest."

One of his other techniques is to build an amusing scene around a standard painting idea. For example, Parcell says he always wanted to paint a locomotive which he did on "Taking the Time To Smell the Roses."

But, Parcell then placed the train in an unlikely position and as he says "starting adding props and stuff" and the result is quite hilarious.

"Nessie Discovered" is also representative of this technique. The painting shows a Scotsman extremely upset that he has a flat tire after running over the Loch Ness monster's neck. His look seems to suggest he could care less about the monster's fate than the fact it gave his bike a flat.

The show also features several clown paintings which Parcell he did because he wanted to do something colourful.

Some of the works are for sale, but Parcell has set a few aside which are not up for grabs. How did he choose which ones?

"My wife likes them. They've been hanging up in the house for years."

Lieutenant-Colonel R. Neal reviews his troops, 1129 Royal Canadian Army Cadet Corps at Camp Brannigan Sunday (June 7). Neal is the commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. The ceremony was the seventh annual inspection of the corps.

Highlands has a Futures

Bill Scott today announced, on behalf of Employment and Immigration Minister Bernard Valcourt, that the communities of Haliburton County have been selected for assistance under the Community Futures Program of the Canadian Job Strategy.

"Despite high unemployment in this area, there is strong evidence that it has the potential for economic recovery", said Mr. Scott.

Community Futures Program helps communities hit with major layoffs and unemployment. This program builds on the existing strengths of the communities, allowing them to pull together and decide for themselves what are the best ways of dealing with their economic problems.

A Community Futures Committee composed of local businesses, federal, provincial and municipal governments, and community representatives will be established. Through Futures, up to $600,000 will be provided for up to six years to help the Futures Committee take a realistic look at the opportunities for developing and diversifying the local economy.

The Community Futures Committee may recommend one or more program options under Community Futures to help workers start a business, learn new skills and relocate to seek jobs.

Driving to be the Best

Spicing it up

The Minden Agricultural Society held its annual beef barbeque June 6 at the community arena. While the patrons enjoyed a tasty meal in the evening, what they didn't see was the hours of preparation that went into providing the repast. Part of that process was the addition of a highly secret blend of herbs and spices before the roasts were placed on the spit. The effort was a family affair as Wayne, Ken and Ron Cox seasoned the 18 roasts at noon before starting to turn them over the barbeque.

An environmentally friendly reminder

These grade eight Archie Stouffer Elementary School students spent Tuesday morning last week painting fish on the pavement adjacent to all of the storm drains in Minden village. The class project was designed as a method of bringing to the attention of residents that everything which does down the storm sewers eventually ends up in the Gull River. The fish symbol was used to illustrate that while material may disappear from sight, it quickly becomes part of the environment, affecting aquatic life, like fish, but also becoming part of the water which many people in the Highlands rely on for drinking and recreation. Their advice, if its not water, it shouldn't be simply poured down the drain because the consequences will impact us all.

The good old days in Norland

It will be a weekend of meeting old friends, sharing memories and recalling the "good old days" in Norland. The occasion is the reunion of Norland Public School, which will also mark the final week the community will have a school to call its own. Times reporter Jerry Grozelle tapped into some of those reminiscences last week when he talked with three former students and teachers of the school.

Bill Valentine

Bill Valentine grew up next door to the Norland Public School. He started school there in 1938 and attended NPS through Grade 8.

He went on to become a teacher himself and, although he retired two years ago, he has been teaching four days a week at Haliburton Highlands Secondary school since he retired. The last 17 years of Valentine's career were spent at HHSS but he has also taught in Fenelon Falls, Lindsay, Etobicoke and a stint in Africa.

Valentine has fond memories of Norland Public School. "It was an excellent school," he said. "For a while we had Lula Hunter there and she had from grade one to grade 10. She had to teach 10 grades," Valentine said. "She had to cope with darn near 40 kids. It sure worked better than what's happening right now."

Although Valentine was taught by several teachers during his time at NPS, and the personalities of those teachers were varied, he had nothing but praise for the people who guided him through his first eight years of school.

"None of the teachers were what you'd call bad teachers," Valentine said. "Some of them were quite different people."

The year that Valentine started school was the year that Orval Mark came to Norland to take his first teaching assignment. "We started with Orval Mark. It was his first year as a teacher. He was super. He taught us how to play soccer and he played with the kids. He was just a super guy."

Another teacher who Valentine remembers well was Mrs. Margaret Hargrave. "Mrs. Hargrave was very religious," he said. "She never could get us all straightened out, but she tried." Valentine recalled a time when he got the strap "for writing some poetry."

It seems Mrs. Hargrave didn't share Valentine's sense of humour and when she discovered an uncomplimentary poem he had written about someone, she deemed it necessary to rectify the transgression by administering the discipline of the day.

Another incident that Valentine remembered from the

Hargrave teaching era had to do with one of his schoolmate's talent for getting out of school. As the story goes, every Friday afternoon was reserved for art class and every Friday, this student would volunteer to go out and find something for the other students to use as a subject for the art class. As it usually turned out, he would wander back to the school just in time for the bell to end the school day.

During his search for artistic subjects one afternoon, he came across a dead skunk. Always open for ways to circumvent the drudgery of classroom work, the student seized the opportunity to share a few days off school with his schoolmates. He slipped into the basement and deposited the dead skunk in the school's furnace. It was several days before the school was fit for the students to return and quite a while after that before all traces of the offending odour had disappeared.

"I can't really say anything bad about the school," Valentine concluded. "We had a few bullies who had to be beaten up, and things like that, but everything worked itself out pretty well."

Marjorie Fountain

Marjorie Fountain was not only a student of Norland Public School, she later became a teacher there from 1953 until the

A celebration of Norland Public School

Saturday, June 20 will mean different things to different people who will be attending the Open House and Reunion to "Celebrate the Life of Norland Public School."

Most will be there to share some fond memories of their experience while attending or teaching at the school. Others are referring to the event as the "Norland Public School Wake"; the last hurrah as the school is closing its doors as an educational institution for the last time at the end of the month.

No matter what the reasons for attending, there is no doubt that there will be an abundance of reminiscing about the "good old days", possibly dating back to the 1920s or even a bit earlier. A committee was formed in April and preparations for the event started. Old records were searched and any families that could be located who had members who attended Norland Public School were sent invitations.

The festivities will include a family picnic, an open house and reunion at the school and a dance at the Norland Recreation Centre. The school's doors will be open from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. and the dance will start at 9 p.m. A display of old photographs will be one of the features of the open house.

Brenda Greer is the unofficial leader of the organizing committee. It also includes: Vernon LeCraw, Jack LeCraw, Brad Cooper, Betty Davey, Pam Brohm, Pat Purdy, Kathryn Francis, Phyllis McHale, Dana Lee, Valerie Greer, Fern Eason, Ruth Ann Matthews, Joyce Bartley, Debbie Magee, Kathy Quibell, Susan Archer, Principal of the school Norma Jean Nelson and the school staff.

Memories of Norland school days

mid 1960s.

It was very early on in life that Marjorie Bryant (she later married Floyd Fountain) made up her mind that she wanted to teach. When she was in Grade 2, something her teacher said or did impressed the youthful Marjorie Bryant at the time and she set her sights then on becoming a teacher. That was about 1914 or 1915.

When she finished her schooling, Fountain taught at the Buller and Beech Lake schools before she started working at the Norland school in 1953.

There were a few "bad apples" among her students when she taught at, but the vast majority of her memories of the school are pleasant ones. "I had heard that there had been students who had put teachers out of the school up in Haliburton County and I made up my mind when I became a teacher that they weren't going to do that to me," she recalls.

If there is one thing that Fountain is certain of it is that the quality of education that the children received in Norland has been as good as they could have got anywhere. "Mr. Cooper, the music teacher, said that when the kids went to high school in Fenelon they were just as smart as the rest," Fountain said. "I had the idea that they were as good as the best."

She pointed out that whenever a student transferred in to Norland from a larger centre like Toronto, she couldn't see that they were any more advanced than the local students. "A teacher can tell how a child is going to grow up," Fountain explained, citing an example of a family that had more than one "tough little brat" who went to the Norland school while she taught. One of the boys, who was a continual troublemaker in school, later ran afoul of the law.

When asked her thoughts about the closing of the Norland school, Fountain said: "It's progress. I knew it was going to happen."

Now living at a seniors' residence in Lindsay, Fountain looks back on her career as a teacher with no regrets. "It was a struggle to get through school, pass the examinations and all that sort of thing, but at last I got there." She admits that she may not have been the best teacher when she started. But, in the final analysis, she says, "I satisfied myself, anyway."

She says she doesn't think she would enjoy teaching as much in the 1990s. "I think I quit just in time," she concluded.

Vernon LeCraw

"I thoroughly enjoyed myself when I was going to the Norland school," said Vernon LeCraw, a lifelong resident of Norland, former merchant, Township Clerk, author of a book on the history of the area and currently a councillor for the United Townships of Laxton, Digby and Longford. "And I got a good education in the process."

"One of the things that sticks in my memory the most is one of the teachers, Johnny Ferguson. I remember going on Arbour Day picnics. He had an old Model T or Model A (Ford) car. As many as possible would pile into this car. We'd wind up having to push it up the hills or have it go up backwards. That's the thing that sticks in my mind."

He also remembers the school fairs, where all of the schools in the district would get together for a combination agricultural, sports and education fair. "We'd meet in Cobocok or somewhere. Every school would have its own banner on two poles. We'd have a little parade of sorts. There would be agricultural displays, art displays, races and games and what have you. They don't have them any more. Anybody who went to school in the '30s would remember them. That was a big event in public school life in those days."

LeCraw recalls an inspector by the name of Jennings who made quite an impression. "He would put the fear of death into every kid in the school. They knew when the inspector was coming, everyone was shaking in his boots, and I think the teachers were too."

LeCraw remembers one day when Inspector Jennings was at the school. When the inspector was writing something on the blackboard, one of LeCraw's classmates was making gestures behind Jennings' back. Somehow Jennings senses that something was going on. He whirled around with the chalk in his hand, threw it in one motion and hit the kid who was misbehaving right on the head. To cap off the student's punishment, Jennings then gave him the strap.

"I don't have any bad recollections of the school. I look back on it with a lot of pleasure, really. I think every other kid that went there enjoyed it too," LeCraw said. "I think we were blessed with good teachers."

Norland Public School through the years

The first school in Norland was built in 1874. It was a 28 by 36 foot frame schoolhouse, built by John Phillips a few feet east of the site of the present school.

The cost of the original one-room school was $550. That school remained in use until 1908 when the stone building was constructed. John Perkins got the contract to provide the stone for the new school at a cost of $60. Local stone mason Dick Teague and his assistant Jack Goddard were hired to do the construction. When that was finished, a contract for $897 was awarded to Robert Morrow to do all of the carpentry work. At the same time, an additional three-quarters of an acre of land was purchased (for $50) to the west of the school to increase the size of the playground. In total, $1,500 in debentures were issued to pay for the new school.

William Adair was hired as secretary-treasurer for the sum of $5 per year. He retained that post until he retired in 1922, when he was earning the princely sum of $8 per annum.

The stone schoolhouse saw many changes over the years. A dozen desks and seats and a teacher's chair were purchased in 1910. Four years later, Sam Bowhey was appointed truant officer. New blackboards were installed in 1918 and more were added in 1925. The teacher got a new desk in 1920 and a new bell was installed in 1923. A covered porch replaced the old separate entrances in 1929. The school was repainted in 1931 and a new furnace was installed that year as well. 1935 saw the first music instruction begin, under the guidance of Bruce Cooper.

The date this photo was taken is unknown, but it is from the early days of the school. The chimney (right behind the bell enclosure in this photo) was later moved to the back of the school. Note the two doors on the front of the school; the left one was the girls' entrance while the boys used the right door. (photo courtesy of Vernon LeCraw)

The first indoor plumbing, in the form of "pail a day" chemical toilets, was installed in 1939. A Township Area Board assumed control of the school in 1942. A well was drilled and new cellar stairs were built in 1945.

The school jumped into the electric age with the installation of the first electric lights in 1946 and in 1949 a coal furnace replaced the old one. That furnace was only kept for six years, when an oil-fired furnace was put in. The interior of the school got a new paint job in 1950 and the same year saw the introduction of religious instruction.

County Library book shipments began in 1952. Four years later, a new ceiling was built and storm windows were installed. With the increase in enrollment, it was decided that expansion was necessary. A new one-room addition opened in September of 1960. Playground equipment was also purchased that year.

As the population of the area continued to increase, it was necessary to add another two rooms. That addition was completed in 1965. Since that time, the Norland school has had to make use of a number of portables to accommodate an ever-increasing volume of students.

Control of the Norland Public School was assumed by the newly formed Victoria County Board of Education (VCBE) in 1970. During the mid-1980s the VCBE decided to consolidate the three northern schools. The decision met with much protest from area residents who preferred to keep the smaller schools rather than have their children bused to a larger facility.

A group called Save Our Schools, or SOS for short, was formed and a long battle between the VCBE and SOS ended with the Board of Education winning out.

The 1992-93 school year will mark the beginning of a new era of education in the northern portion of Victoria County. The children who would have gone to Norland, Kinmount and Burnt River, as well as the old school in Coboconk, will be attending a new school in Coboconk this September.

*Note: Most of the information on the history of the Norland Public School was gleaned from the book "The Land Between" by F.V. (Vernon) LeCraw. The book was published in 1967 on behalf of the United Townships of Laxton, Digby and Longford as a Centennial project. It is a history of the three townships. A few copies of the book are still available at the Township office in Norland.

Highlands Little Theatre will host stage festival

Who was Vere Brabazon Ponsonby, what is the EODL and what do they have to do with Haliburton?

If you enjoy live theatre and appreciate the efforts of our own Highlands Little Theatre, then come November, you will be able to experience the dream of one of Canada's Governor Generals, Lord Bessborough, (1931-1935) by attending the Eastern Ontario Drama League's (EODL) one act play festival.

The Eastern Ontario Drama Festival originated out of Lord Bessborough's love for theatre. It was his idea to initiate a Dominion-wide amateur theatre festival. During a meeting in Ottawa of sixty enthusiastic people from across Canada, plans were made for a series of preliminary regional festivals. The region they drew from was all of Ontario east of Toronto. Then, on the night of February 23, 1933, the original Eastern Ontario Drama Festival took place at Queens University's Convocation Hall, Kingston. Thirteen one act plays and scenes were entered and the winner was "IIE".

The festival continued at Kingston for another six years and again after the war until 1948. At that time it was decided that the Festival should travel from city to city within the region. It has been doing this ever since, with member groups taking turns at being the host.

This year it's the Highland's Little Theatre's turn and preparations have been underway for months in anticipation of the arrival of other member groups.

At one time, the Drama Festival had two sections, anglophone and francophone. In 1955, the sections merged and the Festival became officially bilingual, although there have not been any francophone entries since 1968.

Many changes have been implemented over the years with regard to regulations. No longer are the host groups responsible for all the necessities and plays restricted to black curtains and minimum props. There was once an elaborate marking scheme as well as a list of "suitable" plays. At one time it was necessary to bring adjudicators all the way from England or France but now Ontario is able to provide its own expert adjudicators. Until 1938, the Festival was limited to the entry of one act plays or scenes. At that time, full length plays were introduced and by 1961 had become the rule rather than the exception. It was in that year that the region introduced its separate one act play festival.

Awards and trophies have been donated by member groups and businesses from their areas and are given at the festival for acting, directing and visual appearance of the set as well as other theatrical disciplines.

We know the spirit of Vere Brabazon Ponsonby, 9th Earl of Bessborough, will be with us in November, and we hope you will be too.

With her fingers ready to fly, Michelle McKnight, grade 12 student at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, has placed first in a regional speed typing competition. The contest, sponsored by the Ontario Business Education Teachers' Association, judged the students on speed and accuracy in word processing. Teacher Wanda Mole presented the fleet-fingered typist with the certificate marking her accomplishment.

Ask about our Spring Special.

When Canadians work together we can take on the world and win.

To succeed in today's world, Canadians must be able to compete because our jobs directly depend on it. Preparing ourselves through training will help us to compete and secure the prosperity we want for ourselves and our children.

We have to invest in ourselves and be a country that says ... yes we can.

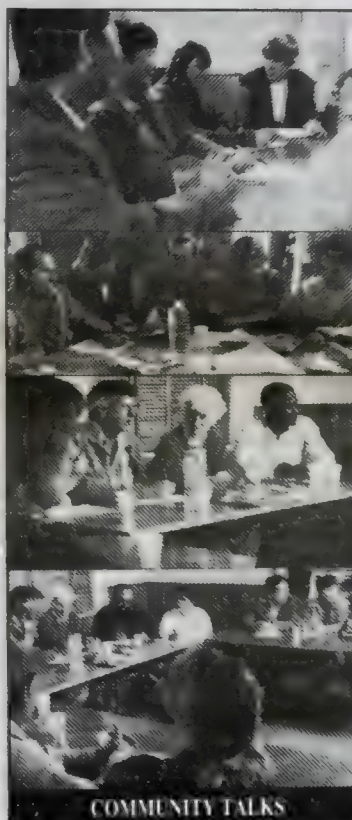

SWEEP RITE MANUFACTURING INC., REGINA

Everyone knows a small company from Regina can't compete in world markets. Everyone, that is, except Les Hulisko, President of Sweep Rite Manufacturing Inc. His high technology, innovative, mechanical street sweepers are cleaning up around the world, with exports accounting for up to 75% of sales.

Yes we can. We've got the proof.

Canadians are succeeding every day. Many individual and business successes exist... with real benefits for individuals, the communities they live in and for Canadian industry.

Hundreds of Canadian companies are achieving remarkable international success. They're creating jobs, developing new skills and opportunities for thousands of Canadians and creating markets around the world for Canadian products.

COMMUNITY TALKS

The Prosperity Initiative's Steering Group is developing a consensus-based plan of action to be presented to Canadians in September. Canadians told us that they wanted to participate in developing this plan of action. We listened...

Through a series of "Community Talks", thousands of people in 186 communities across Canada have contributed their ideas. They talked about how to address the challenges and opportunities facing us all in the areas of competitiveness and learning. They talked about how to maintain our standard of living and secure our economic future. They concluded that all of us have to play a part...and the government is listening.

Yes we can. We've got the ability to build on our successes.

We have a history of working in co-operation with others for world-class achievements in peacekeeping, medicine and space exploration. Now, with business, labour, governments, academic and social groups working together, we can achieve prosperity through international competitiveness. But there is one more critical factor: Canada's ultimate potential depends on the commitment of individual Canadians to being the best.

ANITA LÉVES, QUEBEC

"I moved to Quebec with an Ontario teacher's certificate. For several years, I could only get work as a substitute. I knew it would be hard to get a full-time job if I didn't re-qualify, so I took my Quebec Certificate. I now teach full time, have a better salary and realize that if you want a better future, you have to be ready to retrain. It was worth it for me!"

Yes we can. We've got the people.

It's time to focus our energies on our most important economic challenge yet... and prepare ourselves for a more prosperous future.

Yes, we can!

Austalian decision sets an example

Australia remains a unique continent tantalizing all nature lovers with a menagerie of wombats, koalas, emus and platypuses.

As in Canada, most people here live in gleaming modern cities and everywhere I've been, people recount the explosive growth and development of the countryside. The loss of wildlife and forests has been accepted as the "price of progress". But this attitude is changing rapidly.

In the state of Western Australia, a $1 million government survey of people's concerns revealed that while there is worry about the economy, jobs and increasing violence, the major priority is the environment.

Peter Garrett, the lead singer of the popular band Midnight Oil and president of the Australian Conservation Foundation, told me the federal government won't release a study that shows the same thing.

There is a clash between the economic imperative for relentless growth and development and the need to preserve the ecological treasures that make this country so special.

Increasingly, aborigines are raising awareness of the spiritual value of the land. Like the indigenous people of North and South America, Australian aborigines suffer and economic and social plight that is rooted in a history of conquest, exploitation and racism. And in their battles for land rights and protection of sacred sites, they have seldom come out winners.

Recently, for a change, aborigines celebrated a rare victory that also provides an occasion to re-examine our notions of development and progress. In the Northern Territory (NT), the Todd River flows, in a manner of speaking, through Alice Springs.

It's extremely dry - rainfall averages 282 millimetres a year and drops as low as 82 mm so the river bed is bone dry most of the time. So people have built their homes right along the edge of the riverbed. But in the past 20 years, short bursts of heavy rain have generated flash floods in the Todd that have caused property damage and seven deaths.

Reflections

by David Suzuki

Under pressure from non-aboriginal homeowners, the NT government has proposed controlling the flooding by constructing a dam across the Todd at a cost of $20 million to $25 million.

Local aboriginal groups have vehemently opposed the dam because it would flood sacred sites that are particularly important to women. The dam would also have severe repercussions for the delicate desert ecosystem along the river.

However, the NT government declared the sacred sites "less important" than the greater good of the Alice Springs community and pressed on with its plans. For almost 13 years, the aborigines have fought the dam and were even accused of causing the deaths because of their opposition.

Faced with a government prepared to go ahead with the dam, the aborigines finally appealed to Robert Tickner, the Federal Minister for Aboriginal Affairs. Tickner applied a temporary stop action on the dam and appointed Hal Wooten, a former judge and member of the recent Commission Aboriginal Deaths in Custody, to study the controversy.

Wooten's report slammed the NT government's plan as an attempt to prevent infrequent and minor property damage to homes built without precautions of elevating or flood proofing on flood prone land. He concluded that aboriginal spiritual needs far outweighed the rationale for the dam.

The Minister for Primary Industries, Simon Crean, even indicated that recent flooding would not have been prevented by the proposed dam. Last week, Tickner announced a permanent block on the dam.

While there were strong economic and ecological arguments against the dam, Tickner's decision was made primarily out of respect for the overriding spiritual needs of the aboriginal women. It was big news in Australia as aborigines savoured an all too rare recognition of their traditional values.

The story is familiar to Canadians, a conflict between those who see the land as an opportunity for development or as a wild area that must be tamed and others for whom it embodies tradition, culture, history and meaning.

That's what the struggle is for the Lubicon in Alberta, the Gitksan-Wetsuweten in B.C., the Cree in Manitoba and the Mohawks and Cree of Quebec.

There is a priceless lesson to be gained by the dominant society in these battles. The global ecocrisis reflects the fact that we are living unsustainably as we compromise the quality of air, water and soil and tear holes in communities of living organisms. We need wilderness "sanctuaries", sacred places where human beings respect complex ecological communities by leaving them alone.

By discovering an attitude of respect and reverence for the things that keep us alive and healthy that is still held by traditional peoples, we may learn to live in balance with nature and thus preserve the things that make Canada and Australia so special.

Recently, the Minden IDA Drug held a customer appreciation day. The annual promotion also provided an opportunity to introduce area residents to the new look of the interior of the store. During the past few months the store has undergone a complete facelift and expansion. The dispensary area has been increased at the back and the retail space has expanded into the former Highlands Jewellery and China Shoppe, which has moved into the new building next door. On hand to greet visitors to the store were staff members, from the left, Lora Skelding, Evelyn Jewell, Joan Kernohan, Jodi Dillon, owner and pharmacist Paul Heffer, Jacqueline Coburn, Donna Toye and Frances Flemming. Other staff members, unavailable when the photo was taken, include, Nancy Walker, Janet Heffer, Kelly Newell, Julie Ann Adam, Meaghan Obee, Gord Allen, Kim Warburton, Mary Heffer and Matthew Heffer.

Scarecrow contest returns

With the advent of spring gardening, what better time to direct your attention to our second annual scarecrow contest.

Full contest rules are published in this issue of The Times, so please clip and be part of the fun.

This contest is open to all ages, members and non-members of the society, and the good news is, there is no entry fee.

All entries must be delivered to St. Paul's Anglican church, Minden, between 7 and 9 p.m. Thursday, July 2 for judging. We extend a welcome to the public to come Friday, July 3 between 1 and 9 p.m. to view this display. It is guaranteed to bring a smile to you face. Refreshments will be served all day, and there will also be a plant sale and white elephant table.

The Minden and District Horticultural Society meets at the cultural centre the first Tuesday of every month at 7:30 p.m. President is Jean Robson. Do join us for an informative evening followed by refreshments.

Our 13th annual Flower Show is August 6 and 7 at the Minden Community Centre and will follow the theme "Circus of Flowers". This is another event which will give much pleasure to the participant and viewer.

If you wish further information with regards to the scarecrow contest, please call Marion Hill 286-3969.

TSW water level report

The lake levels in the Kawarthas have remained stable during the past week. Most are just a few centimetres above the summer navigation range which is a normal condition for this time of year. The Otonabee River discharge is steady at 25-28 cubic metres per second.

Reservoir levels have been mostly unchanged since last report and are now at 97% of their full level as of June 1. The average percentage over the last 10 years was 95% for the same date.

With additional input from what appears to be weekly rains, the reservoir lakes will not be affected by the drawing of water for another week at least.

The Minden Fire Department, and other emergency services in the community, should be able to find properties around Canning Lake with greater ease, thanks to the efforts of Mark Hodder, right, a member of the lake's property owners association. Mark has prepared a highly detailed map of the access routes to the lake and assigned a number to each of the properties to assist in rapidly determining the location when calls for assistance as called in. A copy of the map and the list of property owners was recently presented to the Minden Fire Chief, Don Booth. Similar maps will be placed with the OPP and ambulance service as well as distributed to property owners on the lake. The association also took advantage of the occasion to presented the chief with a donation to the department's special equipment fund. The chief said he was gratified to receive the donation from the association and said the map would be a valuable tool in assisting the department in responding to calls in that area.

Initiative deals with violence against women

On May 13, 1991, the Honourable Mary Collins, Minister Responsible for the Status of Women, announced the formation of the Canadian Panel on Violence Against Women.

"This initiative responds to the public concerns expressed by women's organizations and the significant number of requests made in the past year for a national inquiry into violence against women," said Minister Collins.

Since then, the Panel has completed the first phase of its 15-month mandate to examine the issue of violence against women and put forward recommendations for ending the violence with a plan of action to be adopted by the federal government and other sectors of Canadian society.

During the first phase, the Panel completed six tours of the country including all provinces, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories. In public and private consultations, Panel members heard from over 4,000 individuals who related their own experiences of violence in all its forms — physical, sexual, psychological, emotional, financial, verbal and more.

Report from Ottawa

from the office of Bill Scott, MP

Marthe Asselin-Vaillancourt, Co-chair of the Panel, said: "We made it a priority to meet in the environments where women felt safe to tell their stories — women's and other community centres, shelters and transition houses, campuses and institutions such as hospitals, chronic-care facilities and homes for senior citizens." Many of the women and men who came forward offered original solutions toward ending violence against women and these will be incorporated into the plan of action this December, 1992.

Currently, the Panel is circulating a survey to Canadians through the offices of local Members of Parliament. The survey will add to the Panel's body of work with confidential responses to different aspects of violence and some proposed solutions.

This summer, the Panel will begin its second and final phase. Panel members will be traveling to a number of communities, holding town hall meetings and other events to allow women and men to become engaged with the process and begin planning for the implementation of solutions.

According to Pat Freeman Marshall, Co-chair of the Panel, "The time is right for the Panel to find a way to put forward concrete solutions to the problem. Women and men can work together to make zero tolerance of violence a reality for all Canadians."

Other members of the Panel are: Judy Hughes of New Glasgow, Nova Scotia; Peter Jaffe of London, Ont.; Mobina Jaffer of Vancouver, B.C.; Ginette Larouche of Montreal, Quebec; Diane Lemieux of Sherbrooke, Quebec; Donna Lovelace of St. John's, Newfoundland; and Eva McKay of Oak Lake, Manitoba. The Panel is assisted in its work by a four-member Aboriginal Circle: Martha Flaherty, of Ottawa, Ontario; Winnifred Giesbrecht, of Winnipeg, Manitoba; Claudette Dumont-Smith, of Hull, Quebec; and Jeanne McDonald of Val D'or, Quebec. Additional expertise, encompassing a wider regional representation, is provided to the Panel by a 23-member Advisory Committee.

The Panel builds on other efforts being pursued by the federal government in this area, including the Family Violence Initiative announced in February, 1991 and the Framework for a National Strategy on Violence Against Women developed by federal provincial and territorial Ministers Responsible for the Status of Women.

Said Minister Collins: "Violence threatens of all ages, cultures, backgrounds, abilities and economic situations. In creating the Canadian Panel on Violence Against Women, the federal government is affirming its commitment to put an end to violence against women in Canada."

Copies of the Panel's survey is available through my constituency office which is located at 2 King Street, Lindsay, K9V 1C5 or by writing to me at the House of Commons in Ottawa, K1A 0A6. All responses will remain sealed and forwarded directly by my office to the Canadian Panel on Violence Against Women.

Residents meet their penpals

Saturday and Sunday, May 30 and 31, were cloudy and rainy.

Friday I went to Peterborough with Terry and Norma to stay with my sister's family for the weekend. My niece and her mother and father brought me home Sunday. On Saturday afternoon, Willis McNeilly entertained the residents in the Trillium Lounge with delightful piano music and Mary Guillemine held reading in the tuck shop. We thank them both very much for helping us spend a much less monotonous weekend.

Rev. John Burgess took the Sunday night chapel service with the help of Alice Jones at the organ.

Monday, June 1 was the end of this season of pen pal writing. The Grade 5 students of Archie Stouffer school and their teacher, Bonnie Berry, were invited for a hot dog, hamburger and ice cream lunch. Pen pals were seated together so they could get acquainted. Following lunch, the children entertained us with a nice program of square dancing which we enjoyed very much. Finally, the children were divided into groups and a resident for each group

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

took them on a guided tour of the main floor. Hope they all enjoyed the day. Much of the success of this venture is credited to the patience and hard work of Molly McCarthy and to show our thanks and appreciation we presented her with a small gift and card made by some of the residents. Molly does all this voluntarily. Thanks to the pupils and Bonnie Berry, their teacher, and Linda Fry. It was team work that made it succeed.

Monday evening, Ruth Rice and Ena Marion showed the movies "Blue Grass Country", "Pecos Bill" and "Flipper The Seal". We thank them greatly.

After lunch, Doris took us for a bus ride along Hwy. 35 and back to Kawartha Dairy for ice cream. It was a lovely drive. Thanks Doris and Linda.

Wednesday we had crafts in the afternoon and a service in the Trillium Lounge by Pastor Murray, with all our thanks.

Tea party was Thursday. It was provided by the ladies of West Guilford Brethren Temple - Lorna Stackhouse, Heather Bonham, Doris Cooper, Grace Schakelaar, Peggy Jolen, Alison Peracko, Sylvia Carney and Sue Mamey. As we had our tea we listened to Nicholas Holiday-Rhodes play beautiful music on the piano. He is a lovely player and we thank him very much. Thanks also to the ladies who served.

Nancy Briggs, who has been our regular caller, and Amy Parker, who will call for us all summer, called Bingo for us. Nancy brought us all a bunch of lilacs. Thanks Nancy and welcome Amy.

Mike and Connie Biagi, Frank Faulkner and Doris Robertson provided the entertainment for happy hour on June 5. We enjoy their music very much. The residents and friends were ably cared for by Ellen and Don Holden, Janke Thomas, Dorothy Milne, Loraine Swinson and Mary Guillemine. Thank you all sincerely.

Kids' Korner

by Jean Lacey

Hi Kids!
Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

Jean Fairfield had a bad fall June 3 and fractured her ankle and leg and was in hospital until June 8 at St. Joseph's. All good wishes go to her. No swimming for her this summer.

Bradley, Maggie and Donna Robinson of Toronto were weekend guests with his mother Florence Robinson.

Sincere sympathy from the community to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Everleigh on the sudden death of her brother.

Many people on the sick list this week with good wishes going to Alice Morrison, Lindsay Lewis, Carrie Drysdale, Grace Earle, George Simmons Sr., Vern Griffin, Lottie Ruttan, Irene Duncan, Wes Baker, Maurice Cooper and Ken Fielding at Civic, Reg Welch at Haliburton and Bill Porter.

Just had a call from Mrs. Stevenson and Judy is so lonely and would welcome letters or calls. She is at Royal Victoria Hospital, in Barrie.

The winners at Stanhope Summer Bridge on June 2 were Claudia Watters, Vange Croucher and Fred Heal. Winners on June 8 were Vange Croucher, Jack Croucher and Chuck Watters. These games go on at 1 in the afternoon and you don't need to bring a partner.

Saturday afternoon June 9

Minden Women's Institute celebrated their 85th birthday with a Tweedsmuir tea at the Library Cultural Centre. Some of the ladies were in costume and those who dropped in had a chat and a look through the updated Tweedsmuir books, now numbering six. A good place to do your family research. These books are at the Minden Public Library during their open hours and will be at the County Town museum during July and August. One item of note was that some items were read from W.I. minutes books of earlier years.

Congratulations to Dale and Wayne Toye who celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at the party-dance at the Curling Club last Saturday night.

I had a great visit with a cousin Bob Barnes from Richmond Hill one day last week as he looked through my history items.

At the weekly euchre games at St. Paul's Parish Hall on Monday, June 8 winners were lone hands on a cut Gladys Wruth, and others Cecil Lee and Joan MacKenzie and draw went to Irene Fuhr.

Janice and Jack Shaw enjoyed the 35th wedding anniversary of Les and Minnie Robinson in Lindsay on June 9 and a great time was had by all.

Minden Branch Legion is having Canadian Trivia again June 17 at 7:30 with a steak roll as well. The only Canadian Legion having this trivia.

Minden Women's Institute June 17 meeting is a pot luck lunch at Minden United church at noon. All ladies welcome and bring your own dishes and cutlery.

At the terrace meetings of Directors and Parkside Social Club went on with planning of the Patio-Tea Room and sale on July 11 with Convenors appointed. Then Friday, June 6 at supper time, many gathered in the lounge for their first barbecue meal with chef Al at the grill. Salads, tea and coffee were available and birthday cake for those celebrating in this month. Then the musicians, the Houghton Group, arrived and the entertainment was enjoyed by all. A grand addition is the new flag pole and flag flying the breeze, thanks to the management.

If you have an item for this column, please call and leave your name and number and I will call you back. As this column is handed in on Thursdays, please call before then.

Club 35 Euchre for June 8. Winners were: 50/50, Doreen Lewis; most lone hands, Ken Campbell; high lady, Betty Skinner; high man, Jim Foster; others, Betty Matthews, Milt Fletcher, Olive Daniels. Special prizes; Pearl Foster, Milt Fletcher, Verna Sawyer, Bert Cowan.

May was a fairly pleasant month with lots of sunny days but the average temperature was lower than normal. There was more than normal mornings with frost for a May. Rainfall was about average. Due to the lower than average temperature and the later date for the ice going out of the lakes, the river temperature was 5.5 degrees lower than last May.

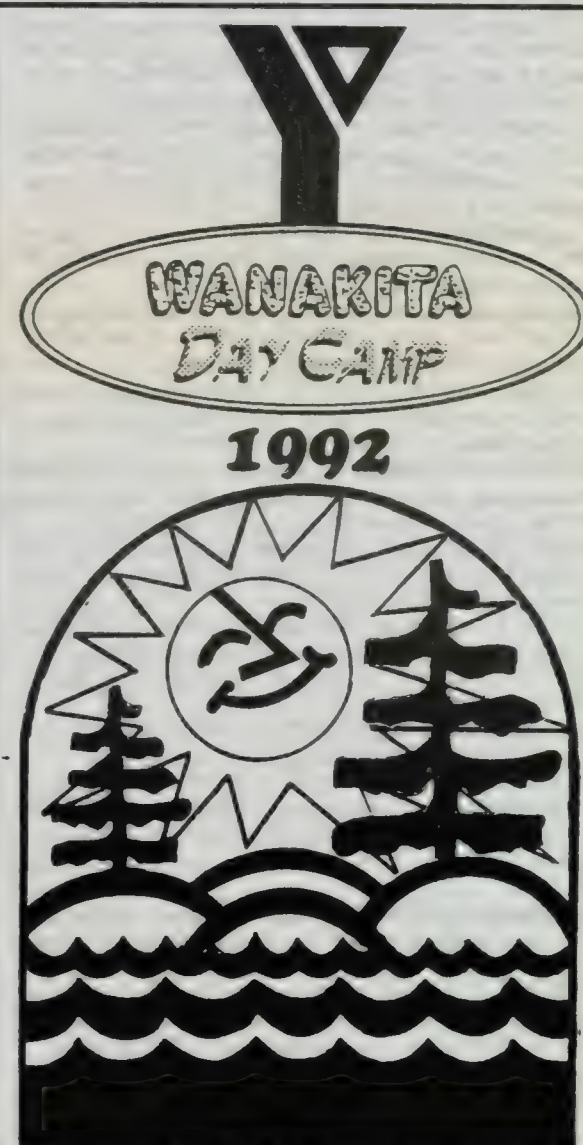

Mrs. Lillian Martin is proud to announce the graduation of her daughter, Judith Martin, from Durham College in Oshawa. Judy graduated on the Dean's List from the Health Sciences Division as a Registered Nurse. She attended Archie Stouffer Public School and Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. She returned to school at Durham College to receive her Secondary School Diploma and subsequently attended Durham College to receive her Nursing Degree. Judy and her family are currently residing in Oshawa.

Daughter of Local Couple Marries

Anne-Marie Bergman, daughter of Gord and Pat Gibson of Lutterworth, was married recently in Bancroft. The skirl of pipes greeted her and her new husband Tom Pap of Bancroft as they emerged from St. Paul's United Church on May 30. The bride, of Scottish ancestry on her mother's side, was beautifully attired in a white satin dress with lace overlay, while sporting a tartan garter which was sent over from Scotland. Her attendants, Leanne Conway of Vancouver, and Jennifer Blake and Mary-Anne Svensson both of Toronto, were clad in off-the-shoulder dresses in a delicate floral tapestry. The groom, son of Nick and Brigitte Pap of Bancroft, resplendent in white and navy tails, was attended by, Andy MacRae, Glen Pap, James Pataran all of whom were or are long time residents of the Bancroft area. The reception was held at the Bancroft Fish and Game Club. The couple honeymooned in Antigua.

The Haliburton County Information Centre Inc. is looking for an experienced Senior Administrative Assistant: 29 week position starting July 13, 1992. Qualifications: Proven secretarial and administrative skills. Excellent working knowledge of DOS, Q & A, Lotus 1-2-3, and ACC Pac. Ability to communicate with the public in a pleasant manner and shift priorities to meet deadlines. Return resume by June 23, 1992 to: The Haliburton County Information Centre Inc., Drag River Municipal Building Maple Ave., Haliburton, Ont. K0M 1S0. 6CD

Despite the gloom and doom 31 workers found work through our office in May. Twenty-four people began training. At the beginning of the month we had 24 job openings and received 50 more orders making a total of 74 jobs available in May.

We do help with UI claims, but the employment positives keep the attitude hopeful and upbeat as we begin a new and busy season.

Come on in, check our job boards. If you don't meet the specifics of jobs, maybe there's some training or upgrading you should be considering.

It's a tough market when so many are competing. Your efforts to make your skills, presentation or resume more saleable, will ensure you are doing your best.

CARDS OF THANKS

Minden Agricultural Society sincerely thank all the volunteers who helped make our Beef Barbecue Dinner and Dance a success. Thank you to all of the ladies who donated desserts and to Brian Sisson and his staff for their assistance. Thanks also to all of you who supported us by attending.

CARDS OF THANKS

To all my friends, and fellow patrons of the Big "D". Your warm reception for me; upon my return from my recent surgery was very much appreciated. I don't know if I'll ever be able to thank you enough! The card and gift are warmly received with my thanks. I especially want to thank Jack Stevenson, Kim Greer, Peter Mathwich. As well as Alan and Trish, and Catherine and Bryan. For their part in giving me some memories I will never forget. Sincerest thanks, Trapper John

We wish to thank our family and friends for helping us celebrate our 40th Wedding Anniversary in such a surprising and happy occasion at Medley's. We appreciate it all. Doug and Bernice Casey.

I would like to thank all those who reached out to my family in love and care while I was away in Toronto recovering. Your concern for us all through cards, prayers, food and help deeply touched us. The sense of being "one big family" that is unique to rural communities was evident here! There's no place like home!

With gratitude, Beth Fast.

25th Anniversary

We would like to thank our family and friends for the cards, flowers and gifts for our 25th Wedding Anniversary and for sharing our special day with us. A very special thank you to Tracey, Stephanie and Craig. Wayne & Dale Toye

On behalf of the 1129 Royal Canadian Army Cadet Corps, Haliburton, on the occasion of our 7th annual inspection held at Camp Brannigan on June 7, 1992, we would like to thank, first of all, our sponsor, the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 129, Haliburton, and its president, Wally Chambers, and our liaison officer, Mabel Brannigan, for their financial and moral support throughout the year. Also, special thanks to Jim Tice for his unending co-operation at all hours as we prepares for this inspection. Thank you to the Minden Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion and its president, Dave McAdam, for their financial support. The reviewing officers were Lieutenant Colonel E. Engyel, C.D., R. Neal, C.D., commanding officer of Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, our affiliate unit. Both officers were thoroughly impressed with the day's events and were only too happy to let everybody know. Also, thank you to the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary for providing lunch for the cadets on that day, remembering that an army travels on its stomach. Also, thanks to the participating parents and the parents who donated food for the after-inspection refreshments. Thank you to the Haliburton County Board of Education for the alternate use of their high school in the event of rain (which we had, but we kept soldiering on at Camp Brannigan). Thanks to McKay Brydon, after whom our parade square has been named, for his tireless support of our cadet organization, which is always appreciated from a school principal. Thanks to the Haliburton County Ambulance service for their co-operation and support. Our first aid team sincerely appreciated the use of a backboard for their demonstration. Thanks for the on-site stationing of medical staff and ambulance on inspection day. Thanks also to the local newspapers for their coverage.

On behalf of the Canadian Armed Forces and our corps, we would like to thank Mr. Dick Whiting for the use of his Cadillac staff car, for his expertise in maneuvering through a large crowd and for the display of pomp and ceremony as a military butler in opening Lieutenant Colonel Neal's door. We were very pleased to have Haliburton Reeve, Chris Hodgson, on our reviewing stand. It's always nice to see local politicians participate in these events. Also, thanks to Joan and Jerry Irish, Halco Audio-Visual, Royal Canadian Legion and Haliburton Lumber for their trophies and to Joan and Jerry Irish, Bruce McKay, Hugh Lester, Wally Chambers and Fred Knight for presenting the trophies to our outstanding cadets. Also, on behalf of the entire staff of the cadet corps, an extra special thanks to the Haliburton Legion Band, without whom no military ceremony would be complete. Their performance at this inspection was perfection. If we have neglected to mention anybody in this thank you note, please bring it to our attention. It is difficult to remember all the wonderful hundreds of people who participated in this event. Again, on behalf of Royal Canadian Army Cadet Corps 1129 Haliburton, thank you Haliburton County and all the above mentioned people. Captain John Cooper 1129 R.C.A.C. Haliburton

IN MEMORIAM

ARCHER: Nelson - In loving memory of a dear husband and father who passed away June 15, 1990. It's lonely here without you, We miss you more each day, For life is not the same to us, Since you were called away. To your resting place we visit, Place flowers there with care, But no one knows our heart-ache, When we turn and leave you there. Always loved, missed and remembered by wife Nellie and children.

COLTMAN: Ian Sr. - In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather who passed away June 17, 1987.

IN MEMORIAM

Calm and peaceful he is sleeping, Sweetest rest that follows pain, We who loved him sadly miss him, But trust in God to meet again. Lovingly remembered by Mary and family.

HORSLEY: Garth - In loving memory of a dear brother who passed away June 12, 1991; (my birthday). Though your smile is gone forever, And your hand I cannot touch, Still I have so many memories, Of the one I loved so much. Your memory is my keepsake, With which I shall never part, God has you in His Keeping, I have you in my heart.

IN MEMORIAM

Always in our memory, your sister Glenda Campbell, her husband Vern, and family, Bonnie and Ray, Wade and Lisa, Cindy, and Debbie, and grandchildren Brianna and Kaitlyn.

HORSLEY: Garth - In loving memory of a dear son who passed away June 12, 1991. God knew you were suffering, That the hills were hard to climb, So He closed your weary eyelids, And whispered, Peace be thine. Away in the beautiful hills of God, By the valley of rest, so fair, Some day, we know not when, We will meet our loved one there. So sadly missed by Mum, Margaret Horsley.
